October is LGBTQ+ History Month!
LGBTQ+ History Month was first celebrated in the United States in 1994, centering National Coming Out Day, which occurs annually on October 11th (source). Here are some ideas of what you could do in your classroom or at your school:

- Learn or teach about these 31 influential people from American History who identify as LGBTQ+.
- Choose a new book to read with your class.
- Wear purple on Spirit Day, October 20. Learn about the movement and explain to students and coworkers why it matters to you.
- Check out the resources and ideas pages of the LGBT History Month Website for more ideas!

DEI Keyword of the Month

With Halloween celebrations this month, remember that a culture is not a costume. Watch this video by Rosanna Deerchild for a helpful explanation of the differences between cultural appropriation and cultural appreciation:

Cultural Appropriation: “When someone takes elements from a culture not their own and remakes and reduces it into a meaningless pop-cultural item.”

Cultural Appreciation: “[When] you take the time to learn and interact, to gain understanding of a culture, or cultures, different from your own.”

October 11 is Indigenous Peoples’ Day!

In many states, towns, and cities across the US, Columbus Day has been replaced with Indigenous Peoples’ Day. Click on the following links for resources you can use for yourself or your elementary, middle, or high school classroom. November is Native American Heritage Month, so stay tuned for even more resources about and from indigenous peoples in the next newsletter!

DEI In the News: CRT - Critical Race Theory or Culturally Responsive Teaching?

Dr. Kenann McKenzie, director of the Aspire Institute at Boston University and Beverly school committee member, shares about “CRT” and how it can stand for two different terms, both stirring debate in education and in society. Listen for more in the podcast: “What is CRT and are we getting it wrong?”

NEC Community Spotlight:

KOG interns Nina C & Maddy M are supporting our acknowledgement of Hispanic Heritage month at 112 Sohier Rd! They researched notable Latinos, 10 Latin American country flags. Not yet pictured are 10 traditional Hispanic dishes particular to specific countries. KOG teachers also received culturally appropriate curriculum ideas, activities, and adapted books related to Hispanic culture. Felicidades KOG interns and staff!
